Under Rule 126 the claims have been renumbered. Specifically, claim 1 does not have a number and there is no claim 6. Claim 1 has been numbered and Applicant's claims 1-5 have been renumbered 2-6 respectively. The claims examined are claims 1-8 as presented.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Porzio et al (US 6187351 B1) in view of Cherukuri et al.

Porzio et al disclose an encapsulated flavor composition having a glass transition temperature of greater than or equal to 35°C comprising a flavor material encapsulated in a matrix comprising a sugar, maltodextrin (5 to 15 D.E.), starches, food acids, corn syrup solids, and a cellulose (see entire patent, especially claims 1-4, 25, 26, and 63).

The claims differ as to the specific use of hydroxypropyl cellulose.

Cherukuri et al disclose an encapsulated flavor comprising celluloses including hydroxypropyl cellulose.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to use the hydroxypropyl cellulose of Cherukuri et al in that of Porzio et al because the use of celluloses including hydroxypropyl cellulose to encapsulate flavors is conventional in the art. Applicant uses a known encapsulating material to obtain no more than expected results.
